

American
Dental
Hygienists'
Association

Contact: Nicole DeMarco
Nicole@bigvoicecomm.com
203-389-5223

Teledentistry Featured at ADHA's 94th Annual Conference

CHICAGO, February 10, 2017- Every year, more than 1,500 dental hygienists come together from all parts of the U.S. to learn from and network with the top experts in their field at the American Dental Hygienists' Association's (ADHA) 94th Annual Conference. This year, ADHA is pleased to announce Michelle Noblet-Vacha, RDH, BS as one of the conference's featured speakers, covering "Teledentistry and Addressing the State of Decay in Older Adults."

Noblet-Vacha is the founder and executive director of Senior Mobile Dental, a nonprofit organization serving the oral health care needs of individuals with a focus on the elderly. Earlier in her career, Noblet-Vacha saw how many seniors living in assisted care facilities were struggling with performing their daily oral care, which was impacting their overall health. Senior Mobile Dental, which provides oral care regardless of income or insurance, solves this problem by going directly to the patient in their care setting.

Noblet-Vacha has been recognized for her work by the American Dental Association (ADA), American Red Cross Community Service, Sunstar Americas, Colgate and Crest. ADHA honored her with the Hu-Friedy/ADHA Master Clinician Award at its 2010 Annual Conference as well as the ADHA Award for Excellence in Dental Hygiene.

Taking place at the Prime Osborn Convention Center in Jacksonville, Florida from June 14 to 17, the ADHA 94th Annual Conference offers opportunities for all dental hygienists to advance their professional and personal skills with 30 hands-on workshops, 26 unique seminars, short CE sessions, exhibits and social events. Sessions will be held for clinical practitioners, public health professionals, students, emerging professionals, educators and researchers.

For more information please visit -<http://adha.org/annual-conference-> and follow ADHA on Facebook, LinkedIn and Twitter at @YourADHA.

###

About the American Dental Hygienists' Association

The American Dental Hygienists' Association (ADHA) is the largest national organization representing the professional interests of more than 185,000 dental hygienists across the country. Dental hygienists are preventive oral health professionals, licensed in dental hygiene, who provide educational, clinical and therapeutic services that support total health through the promotion of optimal oral health. For more information about ADHA, dental hygiene or the link between oral health and general health, visit ADHA at www.adha.org.